FedEx Freight and the Christmas SPIRIT Foundation Delivering Joy to Military Families this Holiday Season

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 23, 2020— As delivery services are handling one of the busiest seasons to date, FedEx Freight is adding a few special shipments to its trucks. The company will deliver joy and holiday cheer to military families through the Trees for Troops program, a joint effort led by the Christmas SPIRIT Foundation. This year, FedEx Freight will deliver around 15,000 farm-grown Christmas trees to military families across the country.

"Trees for Troops is one way we give back to those who have sacrificed so much for our safety and liberty," said John Smith, President and CEO of FedEx Freight. "We are honored to lend our world-class operations network to the Christmas SPIRIT Foundation and show appreciation to military families across the country."

Delivering Trees at Home

Trees for Troops will kick off Dec. 2 as FedEx Freight drivers begin deliveries to 79 military bases in the U.S. To date, FedEx has helped deliver more than 244,000 Christmas trees since the program launched in 2005. Trees are delivered to all branches of the military.

Hundreds of tree farms across 27 states spanning from Nova Scotia, Canada to Georgia donate and collect trees to help execute the program. As customers at these tree farms begin picking out their trees for the season, they can also choose to pen a message that will be attached to a tree being donated to a military family. Best wishes for a happy holiday season from customers, FedEx teammates and community partners add a personal touch to each tree delivered.

Give a Tree this Season

Supporting Trees for Troops offers opportunities for your family to give back safely and socially distant this season. Purchase a fresh tree at dozens of Christmas tree retail locations during Trees for Troops weekend, Dec. 4 – Dec. 6. Donated trees will be added to the program's planned deliveries. More information on how to get involved can be found at www.treesfortroops.org.
